1. Executive Summary & Relationship with SkyFinserv

The spreadsheet on the desktop at `C:\Users\Moon Link\OneDrive\Desktop\New Microsoft Excel Worksheet.xlsx` is the foundational real-world underwriting and credit appraisal model for an actual high-value debt restructuring case: Padia Imaging / Govind Padiya.

In the SkyFinserv codebase (`c:\Users\Moon Link\Downloads\SkyFinservefinal`), this file serves as the exact empirical blueprint for the platform's Financial Underwriting CAM Matrix, Balance Transfer (BT) engine, and automated Excel export pipelines.

Direct Evidence & Line-by-Line Links in Codebase

- Direct Client Match in CAM Matrix: In `financial-datasheet.html` (Line 482), the code explicitly scans for this client name: `if (saved.toLowerCase().includes('padiya') || saved.toLowerCase().includes('govind'))`.
- Exact Loan Facility Architecture: All 8 facilities analyzed in this desktop sheet (HDFC Equipment ₹55.67L, BOI CGTMSE ₹2.91Cr, ICICI BL ₹31.89L, Bajaj Flexy OD ₹60.82L, LIC HL ₹51.94L, HDB LAP ₹1.45Cr, L&T Drop Line OD ₹17.20L, BOI Education ₹26.61L) constitute the exact sample profile used in SkyFinserv's underwriting models.
- Dedicated Output Pipeline: `server.js` (Line 2458 & 2834) and `financial-datasheet.html` (Line 1759) specifically reference and protect the target workbook `SkyFinserv_Optimized_BT_Worksheet.xlsx`.

2. Identified Deficiencies in the Original Excel Sheet

While the financial logic was sound, the original file suffered from operational flaws that made it unviable for credit committees:

Audit Dimension	Observed Flaw in Original File	Operational & Analytical Impact	Severity
Layout & Placement	5 tables were crammed onto a single sheet starting at row 14 (`A14:W52`), leaving rows 1–13 empty with mismatched column boundaries.	Inability to print cleanly; columns cut off; figures overlapped.	High
ROI Format Inconsistency	HDFC was entered as whole percentage `10.3`, while Bajaj was `0.1375`, LIC was `0.092`, and HDB was `0.094`.	Formulas dividing by 100 yielded garbage outputs; automated JS parsers failed silently.	Critical
Case-Sensitive Formulas	Formula in H16 was `=IF(G16="Yes",E16,0)`, but column contained lowercase `"yes"`.	External parsers evaluated to zero sums, distorting obligations.	Medium
Hardcoded Amortisation	Row 28 calculated Proposed EMI via hardcoded `=985*I27/100000` (₹4,43,250) instead of the dynamic `=PMT()` formula.	Actual EMI at 8.15% for 180M is ₹4,34,705 — an error of >₹8,500/month (₹15.38 Lakhs over tenure).	High
Omitted BOI Facility	Row 38 had BOI Education Loan (₹26.60L), but it was omitted from the BT benefit calculation table.	Total customer savings calculations were understated and incomplete.	Medium
Raw Data Types	Dates were raw serials (e.g. 44696), and numbers had 15 floating decimals (e.g. `25514.656000000003`).	Unprofessional presentation; lacked standard Indian Lakhs notation (`₹ #,##,##0`).	Medium

3. Implemented Optimizations & Restructured 6-Sheet Architecture

> ✓ Safety & Continuity Safeguard
> An immutable archive was created at: `C:\Users\Moon Link\OneDrive\Desktop\New Microsoft Excel Worksheet_Backup_Original.xlsx`

The workbook was rebuilt using ExcelJS with institutional design standards across 6 specialized worksheets:

① Executive Summary & Proposal (Gold Theme)

Executive dashboard with KPI metric blocks, high-level proposal summary table, collateral summary, and variance analysis ready for Credit Committee review.

② Existing Loans Portfolio (Navy/Blue Theme)

Complete 8-loan breakdown with formatted dates (`DD-MMM-YYYY`), live totals, and case-resilient `=IF(UPPER(...)="YES", ...)` formulas.

③ Collateral & LTV Valuation (Emerald Theme)

Granular valuation of Property 1 (Plot + Construction) and Property 2 (Commercial Plot) with active area/rate formulas and 70% LTV eligibility limits.

④ BT Cost-Benefit Analysis (Purple Theme)

Standardized percentage formatting (`0.00%`), dynamic Foreclosure (FC) charges, PF & Stamp duty calculations, and net customer interest savings.

⑤ 14M Horizon Comparison (Sky Blue Theme)

Short-term equalized horizon cash-flow comparison demonstrating immediate monthly operational relief vs. switching expenses.

⑥ Working Model [All-in-One] (Slate Theme)

A completely cleaned-up, properly aligned version of the original single-sheet working model starting neatly from Row 1 with auto-fitted column widths.

4. Consolidated Financial Summary Table (Padia Imaging Case)
